

Launch Date: August 2022

Partner:

Project Hama

Launched under the leadership of the UAE Prime Minister's Office, Project Hama focuses on enhancing the career-readiness of Emirati female military recruits. Project Hama aims to equip recruits with professional and transferable skills necessary for employment in a variety of fields, including design, project management, and entrepreneurship.

The Foundation supports Project Hama by providing capacity-building workshops to nominated trainers who support workshop delivery directly to the recruits. The workshops leverage the Foundation's award-winning Al Ghurair Young Thinkers Program courses to equip recruits with transferable skills including emotional intelligence, public speaking, presentation skills, strategic thinking, and problem-solving.

Project Hama

Through Project Hama, the Foundation supports military recruits by:

equipping them with crucial market-driven skills through high-quality learning opportunities improving their livelihoods by enabling them to achieve career growth preparing them for the workplace by leveraging strategic partnerships with key stakeholders

“I am proud that the Foundation has been given the opportunity to equip and empower all female recruits of the eleventh cohort with future-critical skills. The strength and resilience that Emirati women showcase are truly inspiring, and their contribution in building a strong foundation for the nation’s growth and success is critical. Through this partnership we will ensure the future talents of our nation are equipped with the necessary tools to develop their professional and practical skills, thus enriching their journey towards further development and workforce readiness.”
